British Week Le Touquet

8th -16th October

A celebration of Anglo-French relations in Le Touquet The Centennial Anniversary of the creation of LeTouquet-Paris-Plage in 2012 is drawing near. All along the century, the resort managed to maintain its 'so British' charm that contributed so much to its reputation of elegance. Find out more

The Maison Forestière dedicated to the British poet Wilfred Owen

Official opening: October 1st 2011

The farming village of Ors has honoured Wilfred Owen with a project based on the house where he wrote his last letter home. Intrigued by the numerous British visitors to the modest forest home, the local community, led by the mayor Jacky Duminy, commissioned Turner Prize nominee Simon Patterson to create a white sculptured memorial to Owen's universal message on the horrors of war.
